Thanks, Gary! For now, I will just share with our HARC technical advisors.

We will hold off sharing it with others until if and when EPA posts it or until you announce its availability.

Subject: San Jacinto Draft Feasibility Study

Scott,

Here is the draft; this is the first part of two – the second part will be in next email. It's also going up on the EPA San Jacinto web site, but not sure when that will be in place. However, please remember that this is only a draft. It is not final, and will be revised in a number of areas. The recommended remedy described in the draft is inaccurate – there has been no remedy recommendation made by EPA. EPA will recommend a proposed plan for site cleanup for public comment after the Feasibility Study is final.

Regards,
